

Human Papillomavirus Reference Center

The 2017 HPV DNA typing proficiency study is now open for registration. Laboratories that are, or will be, involved in HPV surveillance or vaccine development are particularly welcome.

> Registration form

> Call for participation

The Global HPV LabNet is an initiative established to support the world-wide implementation of HPV vaccines through improved laboratory standardization and quality assurance of HPV testing and typing methods to promote international comparability of results. The major methods for achieving progress towards this goal are developing international biological standards as well as preparing and validating proficiency panels to qualify methods.

Contact persons:

Participation, management and practical issues: Karin Dahlin Robertsson

Equalis, Sweden

E-mail: karin.dahlin.robertsson@equalis.se www.equalis.se

Scientific issues:

Dr. Joakim Dillner

HPV International Reference Laboratory, Sweden Center for Cervical Cancer Prevention

E-mail: joakim.dillner@ki.se

www.hpvcenter.se